This course offers comprehensive training to students interested in learning about ethnographic research, analysis, and writing in/of contemporary Asia in a global context, with a special focus on Houston. Seminar-style discussion on ethnographic research methods and hands-on field research on several Asian-American communities will comprise the major course activities.