

FALL 2026

ASIA 220

Science and Technology in China

TTh | 2:30 - 3:45 PM | Chang Xu

This class explores the intersection of science, technology, and empire in early modern and modern Chinese history, including the global circulation of scientific knowledge, technology in empire-building, and the epistemic encounters between the West and China.

Distribution 1 | No prerequisites | Approved for the HIST major & Science and Technology Studies minor

RICE HUMANITIES AND ARTS

Department of Transnational Asian Studies

MORE INFO