

FALL 2026

ASIA 307 • MDHM 307

Medicine and Empire in Asia

TTh | 9:25 - 10:40 AM | Chang Xu

This course explores the intertwining history of medicine, empire and global expansion from the sixteenth to the twentieth centuries, including epidemic disease outbreaks, science and medicine as “civilizing missions,” ideas of race and racism in science and medicine, and the historical roots of the modern global health movement.

No prerequisites | Approved for the HIST major & Science and Technology Studies minor

RICE HUMANITIES AND ARTS

Department of Transnational Asian Studies

MORE INFO