This advanced undergraduate seminar is designed to help students of comparative political science understand similarities and differences between China and other planned economies, other “developing” economies, other military superpowers, other one-party systems, and other Asian nations. Basic knowledge of Chinese history and culture is essential.

Mutually exclusive with ASIA/POLI 489